

Now What?

A few questions to get you started.

In the story, Lieutenant Onoda's final order from his commanding officer was, "Whatever happens, we'll come back for you." In the absence of further orders from his commanding officer, the Loyal Soldier ignored compelling evidence that the war was over. Rather than waste any more of your life following his limiting beliefs, ask yourself a few questions:

- In what ways are you ignoring messages that could bring you peace?
- How is that serving you?
- Imagine the exact opposite of your Loyal Soldier. What would your life look like if you listened to your Champion instead?

Write out your answers and consider the next steps you need to take to regain control of your life from your Loyal Soldier.

LIFENESS HARMONIZE AN ENTREPRENEURIAL LIFE